THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

STATE OF OREGON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, SALEM, NOVEMBER 7, 1888.

This year now drawing to a close has been one of unexampled peace, plenty and prosperity within the borders of the It is proper that public acknowl-Ruler of the Universe for His innumerable blessings. I do, therefore, designate Thursday, the 19th day of November, as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God, to be observed by the whole people of this Commonwealth in token of their gratitude for His great mereles.

In witness thereof, I have set my hand and caused the seal of the state to be affixed, this, the seventh day of November, SYLVESTER PENNOYER,

By the governor: GEO, W. McBBIDE,

Early in his administration he appointed several unfit men to office on the forward he looked upon their advice with seeming suspicion, and was chary to a high degree in accepting suggestions from men whose indorsements should be regarded paramount to those of outsiders. These gentlemen, who naturally had no the city borders. personal love for President Cleveland, saw that he was so much stronger by virture of his position and the circumstances of his election, that the democratic party and the national convention should be compelled to re-nominate him. He considered that his position placed him above the necessity of cultivating the friendship of the leaders in his party. He had no apparent regard for the feelings of a score of veteran democrats who, but for the existence of this "child of destiny," would have been candidates before the convention. He did not set after consultation with his friends in the senate and house. He acted first, and others were at liberty to consult afterwards if they chose. The advice of such men as Wm. L. Scott, Wm. Singerly and Wilson Bissell was preferred to such democrats as Samuel J. Randall, Arthur P. Gorman and John R. McPherson. The southern contingent in congress applauded their northern free trade the south with officers.

THE PRESIDENT ELECT.

The president elect spends the days quietly at his residence, receiving a goodly number of his neighbors and friends who call, and reading letters and Eastern papers. Since the day of election Gen. Harrison's mall has steadily increased, until it has now reached mammoth proportions. It requires an express wagon to haul the bundles of letters and bags of newspapers that arrived almost daily. About 1500 letters and several bags of papers comprised Monday's mail. Heretofore Gen. Harrison has tried to answer every letter, if only to neknowledge its receipt, but with such Six months.

He was very particular to impress on the corre pond-great pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of every communication, and W. H. BYARS - - - Editor up to Monday this was his intention CLARE B. IRVINE - - Local Editor but an inventory of over 7000 telesgrams and letters, with several hundred additional letters arriving each day, has caused him to abandon them individually, and he asks the press of the country to extend his kindest and warmest thanks to his friends.

Nothing has more impressed the president elect than the enthusiastic and heartfelt expressions in the thousands of telegrams he has received. Nearly two thousand of these telegrams and letters were of such a personal character that Gen. Harrison felt it might be considered indelicate in him to permit the publication, although many of them are from persons of political or social distinction. Besides this class of telegrams, there are fully 2000 from men and women in the bumble walks of life, who express their sentiment of admiration and rejoicing in the warmest terms, which, while exceedingly gratifying to the general and calling forth his frequent mention in conversation, enjoin him from offering them to the public.

The governor of Alaska, A. P. Swineford, in his annual report to the secretary of the interior, states that the white population has greatly increased. He estimates that there are 30,000 natives, and the edgment should be made to the Great total population is 49,850, and of this number 6,500 are whites, 19,000 creoles and 2,905 Aleuts. In regard to settlement of public lands, the governor states that all settlers in Alaska on public lands are mere squatters, who are waiting legislation from congress which will enable them to secure titles. All the salmon canneries in the territory, seventeen in number, are located on public lands. He asks favorable consideration by the department of the bill now pending before congress providing for the organization of the territory.

The Oregon Land Company's ten acre lots are selling rapidly, 40 having been sold since the 8th of Sept. There is no probability that 10 acres of good land within four milesof Salem will ever again be offered for $30 per acre on easy terms. There are now five houses in process of construction on lots already sold and roads are being opened and bridges built so that the value of all of the lots is being rapidly enhanced. Any one wishing to buy ten acres of good land for much less than the price of a city lot will do well to look at this property at once as there is no doubt but that it will all be sold inside of thirty days. Call at the office of the thirty days. Call at the office of the Oregon Land company on Com-mercial street and you will be shown the property free of charge.

Considerable excitement was created this morning by the announcement that the wife of a well known Salem business man had eloped with her husband's clerk, but investigations revealed the fact she had only gone hurridly to Squire ally, and the president rewarded Farrar & Co's to catch some of those splendid bargains in groceries,

Charity With Your Thanks.

Governor Semple of Washington territory has issued a Thanksgiving proclamation which is somewhat out of the order of ordinary stereetyped form of such documents. He recommends that on that day the people of Washington territory the semole in their places of worship, in their school houses and society miners' cabins, on their ships and by the firesides of the rich and poor, in the city and country, and there give thanks to Almighty God for His infinite goodness to us and to all men. If any homeless one be seen standing by the wayside on that day, I trust that those who are more fortunate will care for them, that they may see the silver lining to the clouds and feel the sunshine of kindness for a moment, and so not despair of human nature.
